

TAKING IT EASY—Retired Pickaway County Juvenile Probation officer Millard Dern is taking it easy for a while. However, he plans to find something to occupy his time since he has always been active.

Millard Dern Retires As JC Probation Officer

Millard F. Dern last week ended 7½ years service to the youth of Pickaway County when he retired as juvenile court probation officer.

"The job had its ups and downs, but over the years is has been very rewarding," Dern said. "Anytime you can get a boy or girl on the right track it makes you feel good."

Dern was first associated with the juvenile court in July of 1966 after serving a year as county attendance officer when George D. McDowell was superintendent of county schools.

The retired probation officer feels the recent lenient policy of the higher courts toward criminals makes enforcement much more difficult for both lawmen and the local judges.

He pointed out that in many cases the judge's hands were tied by the criminal codes.

Egypt Issues Peace Talks Ultimatum

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan is going to Washington to talk with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger about resumption of the negotiations with Egypt to arrange a withdrawal of troops along the Suez Canal, Israeli officials said today.

Kissinger has been in close contact with Egyptian officials, and observers in Tel Aviv predicted the Israeli-Egyptian talks at Kilometer 101 on the Suez-Cairo road might resume after Dayan's visit.

Cairo newspapers reported today that Egypt has told the United States and the Soviet Union it won't go to the proposed peace conference with Israel in Geneva unless the Israelis agree to pull back to the Oct. 22 cease-fire line.

The Egyptian presence in Geneva "hinges on the implementation of the U.N. resolutions" calling for the withdrawal, the papers said.

Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy met Wednesday with U.S. Ambassador Hermann Eilts and Soviet Ambassador Vladimir Vinogradov and presumably gave them this ultimatum.

Egypt broke off its talks with Israel and troop withdrawal a week ago with the claim that Israel was stalling. Egyptian papers have warned for the past several days that the stalemate along the Suez front was jeopardizing the Geneva meeting, expected to open Dec. 18. But officials in Washington have been saying they expect the talks to start in any case.

Reports of cease-fire violations on the Suez front continued Wednesday, and a military spokesman in Tel Aviv said "each side is preparing for the worst." He said the Israeli forces were ready for battle "even on a third front, the eastern front." He was referring to the Israeli border with Jordan, which remained quiet throughout the October war.

In Tel Aviv, the central committee of Israel's ruling Labor party gave Premier Golda Meir a decisive vote of confidence after she accepted full responsibility for Israel's setbacks at the start of the war despite intelligence reports indicating an Arab attack.

In a long debate on the borders Israel should demand in peace negotiations with the Arabs, most of the party leaders leaned toward a softening of previous positions and renunciation of the prewar Galili Document calling for increased Jewish settlement in the Arab lands captured in 1967.

Arctic Cold Holds Nation In Icy Grip

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arctic cold gripped the midcontinent today and snow swirled over areas from Mississippi to the upper Great Lakes region.

An inch of snow dusted eastern Wisconsin and Michigan before dawn. Winds gusting to 25 or 35 miles per hour caused drifting in Michigan.

Gale warnings were in effect for the Great Lakes region and travel advisories were out for northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin.

Temperatures dropped below zero in North Dakota and Minnesota and readings in the 20s were common from Wisconsin to the middle Mississippi Valley.

A warm air system over western Washington spread rain and snow over the Pacific Northwest. Rain also splashed into sections of the Northeast where unseasonably mild weather lingered.

Unseasonably warm weather lingered over New England Wednesday. Two record high temperatures for Dec. 5 were set, 60 at Concord, N.H., and 63 at Boston, Mass.

Elsewhere skies were generally clear.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 6 at Bismarck, N.D., to 77 at Key West, Fla.

Ford Takes Oath As Veep Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — An early evening ceremony has been scheduled to swear in Gerald R. Ford as vice president, with confirmation by the House, his final hurdle, viewed as a near certainty.

The swearing-in session, which President Nixon was expected to attend, was set to follow today's House vote on Ford's nomination.

Ford's expected confirmation would mark the first use of the 25th Amendment to the Constitution to fill a vacancy in the vice presidency.

The office has been vacant since Oct. 10, when Spiro T. Agnew, facing charges of criminal wrongdoing, resigned. President Nixon nominated Ford two days later.

The 60-year-old Michigan congressman, the House Republican leader, served 25 years in the House. He was confirmed 92-3 by the Senate Nov. 27 and a similar lopsided vote was expected today.

The outcome was so certain that plans were made for a joint meeting of the House and Senate, at which Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren E. Burger would administer the oath.

Ford told newsmen Wednesday he had "mixed emotions about leaving all my friends and institutions that I have grown so fond of." But, he added, "At the same time I am looking forward to the real challenge down the road."

There has been limited opposition to Ford's nomination, mostly in reaction to Nixon's Watergate problems.

Several members think Congress should delay Ford's confirmation until the outcome of impeachment proceedings against Nixon. One of them, Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., contends that Nixon "is clearly under a cloud, unprecedented in the history of the Republic and seriously undermining his ability to govern."

Kastenmeier said that under the circumstances, Ford's nomination is a "tainted appointment."

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif.,

another opponent of the nomination, said Nixon is so insecure in the Presidency that he probably will not finish out his term.

"We are, in fact, selecting a President though his immediate title and duties are those of vice president," said Waldie in a report filed by the House Judiciary committee recommending Ford's confirmation.

However, the overwhelming majority of the House is enthusiastically supporting the nomination of their long-time friend and colleague.

During nine years as minority leader Ford has won a reputation among Republicans as a hard-working party loyalist, and among Democrats as an honest, fair and open antagonist.

"God knows this is a time we need a man with a record for being conscientious and honest," said Rep. Ray J. Madden, D-Ind., chairman of the Rules Committee, Wednesday when the nomination was cleared for a House vote.

Prosecution Begins Case In Trial Of Denver Meade

By SUE BOYER

Four witnesses have testified for the prosecution several pieces of evidence presented in the trial of Denver Meade who is accused of two counts of first degree murder.

The prosecution called as its first witness yesterday morning, Marshall Jack Fisk of Commercial Point. Testimony followed by Pickaway County Coroner Dr. Ray Carroll; Meade's step-daughter, Patty Miller; and John VanSickle.

Several photographs have been introduced showing the two mobile homes from different locations, the automobiles parked in and around the mutual driveway in dispute, the bodies of the two dead and aerial views of the Commercial Point area.

Dr. Carroll's testimony included identifying 34 photographs which he took at the scene and the morgue of the bodies of Charlotte and John Douglas VanSickle and various angles of the trailers of both families.

Testimony revealed that an autopsy was not indicated at first but was ordered later and performed. An autopsy is necessary in this type case and was ordered before the first report was filed.

The autopsy performed Sunday morning after the death of Charlotte Ann VanSickle showed her body contained 17 bullets all of which appeared to Carroll to be small caliber such as a .22. Carroll said in his opinion they were all .22 caliber. Further examination of the coroner showed that of the 17 bullets in the body, several of them were fatal wounds. Carroll said three or four bullets were in the heart one of which went through the heart. Wounds in the lungs, liver, backbone and intestines would have been ultimately fatal testified Carroll.

The courtroom was cleared for the testimony of the 12-year-old step-daughter of Denver Meade, Patty Miller. The child testified that during a visit of Meade's daughter, Veronica Meade Wilson, John Douglas VanSickle took pictures of her car. The incident angered Meade and he told the boy to leave the car alone. Patty further testified that Mrs. VanSickle came out and called Meade a "hypocrite." Patty said the first sign of anger in Meade was when the VanSickle boy took the pictures of his daughter's car as he was always very protective of his daughters.

The girl continued with her story saying that her mother had tried to convince Meade to go to Kentucky to visit an aunt but got no response. She said he had placed a gun on the table earlier in the day and when his daughter touched the gun, he wiped it off. She said she later saw four guns lying on the bed in Meade's bedroom and two guns leaning against the back door.

Patty said that Meade sat with a blank look on his face during the afternoon which she described as looking like "a dummy in a store window." She said she was not frightened when Meade said he was going to kill them if they didn't stop nagging him.

Testimony followed that John Douglas VanSickle had on a previous occasion pounded Meade's car and that the girl had seen Meade mad before but not like on the afternoon of Jan. 20. She related to the court that "something hit him" and he never talked any more until after the shootings.

When he headed to the back of the trailer the mother told Patty to go to her room and she told the court she heard shots and later Meade came back into the home and asked for his former wife's phone number. Patty said he knew the number because he had called her before without looking up the number. She told of Meade calling the former wife and after the conversation pulling the phone from the wall.

She said Meade had said earlier in the day that he had heard voices talking to him from the television set. She further testified that he had told her and her mother he felt like something was behind him and that he saw pictures in his mind.

After the shooting, Patty told the court that Meade was very calm and asked her and her mother to go outside to the cruiser with him.

The first witness this morning was John VanSickle who related to the court the story of how he purchased his lot from Meade and that Meade had repeatedly turned off the VanSickle water supply. The story told earlier of the dispute over parking in the mutual driveway was confirmed. VanSickle identified prosecution's exhibits 48, 49 and 50 as being cars parked in the driveway on Jan. 20.

He said he had called Fisk who was supposed to come to the area by 2:30 and when he still hadn't arrived at 5 p.m., he and his family were getting in the car to go to Fisk's house. VanSickle testified that he hadn't turned the car ignition on yet when he heard something that sounded like a "firecracker." After a second sound, he saw his son with the wound in the head.

VanSickle instructed his wife to hit the ground and they got out of the car. He said he went back to his trailer to get his gun and when he returned outside after getting the other two children to safety inside the trailer, he saw his wife lying on the ground. He also identified pictures of the wall of his trailer and the front door with bullet holes which he testified were not there when he went inside.

By the time VanSickle had returned outside, the Scioto Emergency Squad and Marshall Fisk had arrived.

Lottery Panel Will Make Haste Slowly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's new lottery commission "will not be stampeded into getting the show on the road," its chairman, David F. Leahy of Cleveland, says.

He and the other four members talked with newsmen Wednesday after their brief organizational meeting in the governor's cabinet room. Leahy was elected chairman without opposition.

Generally, they outlined an information gathering effort for the next month and agreed tentatively to meet again in Columbus Jan. 8. Leahy declined to speculate as to when the first lottery tickets might go on sale.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices backed off from some morning gains today but stayed on the positive side.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 7.82 to 796.13 at noon.

Advancing issues led declines 747 to 508 in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks was up .22 at 49.27 at noon.

Burr Oak Closing Upheld By Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court upheld Gov. John Gilligan Wednesday in closing Burr Oak State Park during a labor dispute last summer.

The Republican-dominated court, in a 6-1 decision, said the Democratic governor had the duty and right to the action he took during "an inflammatory situation."

The court said Judge Merle Hoddinott of Monroe County, sitting by assignment in Guernsey County Common Pleas Court, exceeded his jurisdiction when he decided to hold the governor in contempt.

Among other action, the court upheld a contempt citation against a Cleveland theater manager and ruled that a Cincinnati bank had no obligation to accept a re-deposit of $23 million in county funds at the same interest rate.

The Burr Oak case began when Ohio Inns, Inc., operator of lodge and restaurant facilities at Burr Oak and several other state parks got an injunction to keep the Department of Natural Resources from interfering with its operation.

The injunction was issued July 10. On Aug. 3, the department, acting on Gilligan's orders, closed the facilities.

Ohio Inns then filed contempt charges against Gilligan and on Aug. 13, Judge Hoddinott told Gilligan's counsel he planned to hold the governor in contempt. Gilligan went to the Ohio Supreme Court the following day. Justice Paul Brown, former attorney general and unsuccessful Republican primary candidate for governor in 1970, was the lone dissenter in the opinion.

A labor organization was trying at the time to unionize Ohio Inns' personnel at Burr Oak. There were outbreaks of violence before the governor ordered the facilities closed.

The court said Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court was right in jailing theater manager Larry Hardy for contempt after he refused to turn allegedly obscene films over to the judge.

Hardy's Pussycat Cinex Theater in Cleveland had been cited by police for showing the films. A court of appeals had reversed the contempt citation.

The court also reversed two lower court decisions that favored Hamilton County commissioners in a dispute with The Provident Bank, of Cincinnati, where they deposited $23 million Aug. 20, 1971 at an interest rate of 6.262 per cent for six months.

When commissioners tried to re-deposit the same money for the same interest at the end of that period, the bank refused it. The court said the bank had the right to under Ohio law governing county interim deposits.

The court also agreed with Fred Wise of Twinsburg, that a seven-mill levy approved earlier would earn the city more money than it needed for its general fund.

Lower Speed Limits Could Bring Auto Insurance Cuts

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Lower speed limits may also mean lower auto insurance rates for some American motorists.

Officials in 12 states are actively studying the possibility of a rate reduction and the insurance commissioner in a 13th state — Louisiana — already has ordered companies to cut back rates if lower speed limits become law.

An Associated Press survey showed the issue was under discussion in almost every state. In addition, the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, meeting in Las Vegas, Nev., this week, appointed a special task force to study the energy crisis and insurance rates.

The House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill requiring states to lower the speed limit to 55 miles an hour or lose federal highway funds. In some states, the limit already has been set even lower — 50 miles per hour — for cars.

Insurance officials said it will take some time to tell whether the lower speed limit, combined with less driving because of the gasoline shortage, results in fewer accidents. They agreed, however, that if the accident rate goes down, so should insurance bills.

Pennsylvania Insurance Commissioner Herbert S. Denenberg said, "With the near certainty of gas rationing and lower speeds on the highways, automobile insurance premium reductions of as much as 40 to 50 per cent may be indicated. This is what happened in World War II with gas rationing."

A spokesman for the commissioner said Denenberg had asked insurance companies to review their rates and apply for a reduction if warranted.

Denenberg also said he was asking auto insurance companies to add a provision to every policy calling for refunds of any excess profits. "State legislatures across the nation should pass laws mandating a return of such excess profits," he said.

In New Hampshire, Insurance Commissioner Frank Whaland told the Insurance Service Office to resubmit an automobile rating plan to take the energy crisis into effect. He said he was withdrawing his approval of a plan he okayed earlier.

Louisiana Insurance Commissioner Sherman Bernard ordered 473 insurance companies based in the state to cut their rates if the 50 miles per hour speed limit becomes law. He did not specify how much of a reduction would be required.

Studies of possible insurance rate reductions also were under way in Georgia, Hawaii, Rhode Island, North Carolina, Missouri, Mississippi, New Jersey, Florida, Maine and Massachusetts.

Set Shutdown Of Homes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state fire marshal's office will shut down 25 nursing homes in Ohio next month for failure to comply with new safety regulations, an office spokesman said Wednesday.

John Pinkert, of the institutional bureau, said the homes have said they will not be able to install manual fire alarm systems required in the new regulations by Jan. 1.

Pinkert said the homes are small, with five to 10 patients apiece and scattered throughout the state. He would not name them. Their patients, he said, would be moved to other facilities.

In addition, Pinkert said between 100 and 110 nursing homes may be closed in 1975 under a regulation requiring automatic sprinklers.

The new regulations were contained in a bill passed by the Ohio General Assembly last year to strengthen fire safety laws for Ohio's 1,215 nursing homes.

Dale To Get Swiss Post

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Francis Dale, former president and publisher of The Cincinnati Enquirer, was nominated Wednesday by President Nixon as United Nations ambassador in Switzerland.

Dale would head a 100-member staff as the United States' chief representative to the European office of the U.N. in Geneva.

Dale, who for a time headed the 1972 Committee to Re-elect the President, faces a hearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He will have to be confirmed by the Senate.

Dale said he expects question of his activity with the committee "will be raised" prior to the confirmation, but he said he foresees no difficulty.

"I was either too dumb to know or too smart to get involved," he said, referring to the Watergate affair.

Merger Ends College Era

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Final agreement on merger between 120-year-old Western College and campus neighbor Miami University Wednesday ended an era in this southwestern Ohio city.

Miami officials signed over nearly $3 million to permit the former all-girls school to pay its debts as the final step toward merger.

Students of the 320-enrollment school launched an unsuccessful bid in recent months to raise $5 million in an effort to avert the merger.

Western will continue to operate independently until June 30, when the 250-acre campus will be absorbed by Miami.

Western's "Freedom With Responsibility" Program has gained national notice. Students are evaluated by the faculty and advisors rather than graded. Students are not required to select majors or take electives.

The new regulations were contained in a bill passed by the Ohio General Assembly last year to strengthen fire safety laws for Ohio's 1,215 nursing homes.

Dale To Get Swiss Post

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Francis Dale, former president and publisher of The Cincinnati Enquirer, was nominated Wednesday by President Nixon as United Nations ambassador in Switzerland.

Dale would head a 100-member staff as the United States' chief representative to the European office of the U.N. in Geneva.

Dale, who for a time headed the 1972 Committee to Re-elect the President, faces a hearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He will have to be confirmed by the Senate.

Dale said he expects question of his activity with the committee "will be raised" prior to the confirmation, but he said he foresees no difficulty.

"I was either too dumb to know or too smart to get involved," he said, referring to the Watergate affair.

A 59-year-old Canal Winchester woman was injured in a single-car accident 4:35 p.m. Wednesday on the Circleville-Groveport Road.

According to the report taken by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Lawrence Holt, Edith Lucille Barnes was travelling south on the Circleville-Groveport Road when she went off the right berm.

Striking a guardrail, the car went over a 15 foot drop landing on its wheels.

Ms. Barnes was taken to Grant Hospital, Columbus, by the Harrison Township Squad for head and possible internal injuries.

Merger Ends College Era

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Final agreement on merger between 120-year-old Western College and campus neighbor Miami University Wednesday ended an era in this south-western Ohio city.

Miami officials signed over nearly $3 million to permit the former all-girls school to pay its debts as the final step toward merger.

Students of the 320-enrollment school launched an unsuccessful bid in recent months to raise $5 million in an effort to avert the merger.

Western will continue to operate independently until June 30, when the 250-acre campus will be absorbed by Miami.

Western's "Freedom With Responsibility" Program has gained national notice. Students are evaluated by the faculty and advisors rather than graded. Students are not required to select majors or take electives.

He Kicked Drug Habit

DEAR ABBY: Today I am celebrating, but I don't want to do it alone, so I'm writing to you. What am I celebrating? Well, I have been off drugs for six months, and I think that's worth something. Maybe it's because I don't need to steal or run away from home anymore that makes me so happy. Quitting drugs was the hardest thing I've ever done in my life, but the most rewarding.

I'd like to pay tribute to the teacher who helped me do this. I won't mention his name, but he was the one person who never looked at his watch during all the hours he spent with me. My parents helped a lot. I really thought I hated them, but I now realize it was the things I was doing that I hated. I love my parents, and I want them to know that.

I want everyone to know how much I love life now, and how much I love God.

Please print this. There is so much in it I could never have the courage to say out loud. Maybe this will help someone else.

Navy-Hollywood Honeymoon Ends

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The honeymoon is over between Hollywood and the Pentagon.

For decades producers were assured of a cast of thousands whenever they wanted to make movies about the armed services. No more. The new attitude is demonstrated in the Pentagon's shutdown of requests for cooperation on two new films.

The movies are "Cinderella Liberty" and "The Last Detail," and both are being released here this month in time to qualify for the 1973 Academy race. Both are based on novels by Darryl Ponicsan—he also wrote the screenplay for "Cinderella Liberty"—and both have been well received in previews.

The Pentagon decided that neither qualified for Navy cooperation in filming.

Movie studios have long made use of troops and materiel on the argument that their films contributed to the glory of the armed forces. The military began to take a closer look at movie cooperation after "Tora! Tora! Tora!"

The 20th Century-Fox film made great use of military personnel and property to recreate the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. The government was compensated, but the arrangement was a bargain for the film company; without U.S. assistance, production cost would have been far greater than the $25 million spent.

The Pentagon was sharply criticized in Congress and elsewhere by those who asked: "Why cooperate on a film about America's greatest defeat?"

Since then, the brass has scrutinized every request for help in filming.

Mark Rydell, director of "Cinderella Liberty," said, "We reached out for the Navy's help. We needed a destroyer, a Navy base, a Navy hospital and the services of hundreds of sailors."

"We were perfectly willing to pay the sailors at the going rate and not interfere with any Navy operations. The script, we thought, was a very moral tale about a bosun mate, first class who is a naive, solid American man. He has been in the Navy 15 to 20 years and he says, 'The Navy is my life; I love it.' That's the best possible image for the Navy."

At first the Pentagon seemed to agree. Officials said they liked the script and asked Rydell to come to Washington to discuss a few changes. They were mostly in language. The

Princess And Spouse Try Indian Horses

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Britain's No. 1 horse lovers, Princess Anne and Capt. Mark Phillips, tried out specially bred Indian horses during a stop on their honeymoon swing.

They visited one of Latin America's finest horse breeding ranches, Luis De Ascazubi's sprawling 22,000-acre spread.

The couple rode for about an hour and watched exhibitions of cattle lassoing and local riding. A police guard escorted the couple along a 40-mile drive on Wednesday to the ranch from the British embassy in Quito, where they are staying on their honeymoon visit to Ecuador.

A Page Of Opinion

Liquid Coal

Not long ago the U.S. moth-balled its experimental nuclear-powered merchant ship Savannah, in an act which appeared to put an end to a once-promising era before it began. The other day the Navy took its latest experimental ship on a one-day cruise. This one was powered by a coal derivative.

If that appears to be a step backward, it is not. The derivative was oil and the vintage destroyer U.S.S. Johnston is the first ship in the world to use oil produced from coal as its fuel. The Johnston's initial voyage was an expensive one, considering the development costs which contributed to its boiler heat.

But the Navy and the Interior Department, which collaborated on the project, believe there could be a great future for coal converted to oil, not only on the sea but on land as well. To back its belief, Interior has a coal liquefaction plant operating in Princeton, N. J., and another under construction in Tacoma, Wash. Two plants which convert coal to gas also are operating, with a third under construction.

These plants cannot complete economically with conventional oil and gas plants, but researchers working on the project contend they will do so when a higher production level is achieved. Unlike other gas and oil refineries, the raw material for these plants is neither in scarce supply nor subject to boycott.

NEW YORK—The American Museum-Hayden Planetarium in New York is offering a free booklet on Kohoutek and comets in general. So far, mostly young people have written in for the pamphlet and many of them have expressed a troubled fear that, somehow, Big Ko will flash by before they can look up. Hence, they want the comfort of at least being able to read about it and scan the artist's rendering of what it looked like.

The word from 81st and Central Park West, where lurks the planetarium, is "Yes, Virginia, there is a Kohoutek just as surely as there is a Santa Claus, and you'll see it." It'll be around for weeks, which should also take care of the worry of Sam Eakin of Jerome, Idaho:

"So far it has rained nearly every day of this month," Sam's letter fretted. "Dear American Museum," wrote a little girl named Irene Naranjo of Albuquerque, "please send me the pamphlet, but I'd rather see the comet." Other letters ask, "Which way should I look?" and "Suppose all those tall buildings get in the way?"

More optimistic is Emily Tinsley of Foristell, Mo. No moppet, Emily. "Please send the pamphlet on the new comet," she wrote briskly. "I was seven years old when Halley's appeared in 1910 and clearly remember that everyone said, 'The world is ending.' They were wrong. Will be happy to see Kohoutek. Am anxiously looking up."

Ms. Tinsley obviously is not shopping for "comet pills," as a dismaying number of Americans did—to the delight of W. C. Fields and other medicine men—when the Earth passed through the tip of Halley's tail these 63 years ago.

About the time Kohoutek slides away from the sun at 250,000 mph and goes somewhere 'way out there where it will slow down to half a mile an hour and begin its return perhaps 1,000,000 years hence, Pioneer 10 will have been on its solar system escape path for weeks. Unlike Kohoutek, Pioneer 10 will be carrying a message as it departs our premises after inspecting the planet Jupiter.

The message is engraved on a 6-by-8 plaque made of a type of aluminum calculated to survive "well in excess of anything the human race has ever created," to borrow the words of Richard C. Hoagland of the Museum-Planetarium. He was one of the midwives at the birth of the decision to utilize Pioneer 10 as a mind-boggling Western Union messenger.

"The genesis of the Pioneer 10 plaque had its beginning quite by serendipity," he memos us. "A group of us, attending a briefing on an unmanned probe of Mars a couple of years ago, was invited by TRW, the aerospace company, to take a look at Pioneer 10 in its big white vacuum chamber.

"It was an unforgettable sight. It sat there in its hermetically sealed tank like some monstrous imprisoned insect, glistening coldly in the lights of its creators. Its gold antenna was folded, its gold and aluminum skin sparkled through the thick quartz observation port.

"As we stood there staring at this strange creation that was soon to go so far away, never to return, a sudden thought struck us: we were staring at a something man-made that would be the first ever to leave our solar system and go on to the stars. Long after we, that room, and possibly even our planet Earth were reduced to rubble by the death of the sun, this strangely beautiful creation—symbol of our best curiosity—would be sailing in the dark between the suns, the first truly immortal artifact created by the human race."

It must carry a message, the group decided. But as a discomfited Disraeli once sighed, when asked to send the first message by cable from London to an India that had been grossly assaulted by Victoria's people, "What can we say to India?"

The message attached to Pioneer 10 was concocted by, among others, Carl Sagan of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, his artist-wife Linda, and Dr. Francis Drake, a pioneer in efforts to receive and perhaps understand radio-like impulses from outer space. Dr. Drake is now director of the "big dish" Arecibo Ionosphere Observatory in Puerto Rico.

The plaque shows a nude pair of earthlings surrounded by hydrogen symbols, to grossly oversimplify. The thought of its creators was that hydrogen is the one element common to all known heavenly bodies and thus must be universally understood by intelligent beings. Through hydrogen hieroglyphics, the plaque suggests a radio waveband by which aliens might communicate with Earth, if Pioneer should descend among them a few million years hence. "They will at least know," Sagan has said, "that someone cared enough to say hello."

So far, nobody has written in asking for more information on that one. But be patient. Give the kids a couple of million years.

Amish Disregard Energy Shortage

OELWEIN, Iowa (AP) — The Amish of Iowa are consummate savers of energy.

There are no telephone or power lines leading into the Amish farm homes. No cars, trucks or tractors are parked in the yards. Television antennas are missing from the roofs. The plumbing is outside because to pipe water in would require the use of fuel or electricity.

The Amish have none of the niceties of modern America, and they appear bemused at a nation struggling with a severe energy shortage and inflation. "But we don't laugh," said Amish patriarch Dan Borntrager, 73. "It's not right." However, he believes Americans are "wasting what you have."

Chris Rabers, 57, a buggy maker, smiled at the mention of the energy shortage. "We've heard about it," he said.

There are about 125 Amish families—some 700 persons—in the Old Order Amish community near Oelwein in northeast Iowa. Rising prices, the energy crisis and unemployment are passing them by.

Windmills pump the water that is hand-carried into the homes. Shocks of corn fill the fields, cattle which provide milk and beef graze in the fields. There are swine to be butchered and then sugar-cured to avoid refrigeration. Canned produce from summer gardens fill the Amish larders.

Their farm machinery is of the last century. Their beliefs dictate that locomotion can't be powered by gasoline or diesel fuel. Horses are supreme, pulling the plows and providing transportation.

The wooden buggy wheels have metal rims instead of rubber which wears out quicker.

"The Bible says God has chosen all base things. Steel is base, rubber is not," said Borntrager.

Wood from heavy timber stands owned by the Amish fuel stoves for cooking and for heat in Amish homes and the schools they operate.

The Amish are of the Mennonite religion introduced in Switzerland in 1525. The Iowa sect arrived in 1839.

Although no water shortage was feared, Ohio Water Service Co. having a sufficient supply, some wells in the district were reported dry.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Can you explain the hyaline disease that so unfortunately took the life of one of the sex-tuplets?

Mrs. B.R., Tex.

Dear Mrs. R.:

Hyaline membrane disease is a very strange and a very dangerous condition that affects the lungs of the newborn infant. Fortunately, this condition, which tends to occur more frequently in premature infants, is relatively rare.

In order for the child to survive, air and oxygen are brought into the lungs and then absorbed into the bloodstream. Oxygen is the lifeline that sustains all the normal functioning of the body.

In the newborn infant with hyaline membrane disease, a fine lining is present in the lungs. Oxygen, therefore, cannot pass through the lungs into the bloodstream. This causes extreme respiratory distress.

It has been found that infants who survive more than two or three days usually recover. For some unexplained reason, after that time the hyaline membrane seems to disappear.

Many techniques have been devised for keeping these children alive. Now, new continuous positive air wave pressure is being studied at the Children's Mercy Hospital in Kansas City, Mo.

Concentrated oxygen, along with intravenous fluids and unceasing meticulous nursing care, contribute much to the possibility of recovery.

Many similar heroic measures are being used in hospitals everywhere.

NEW YORK (AP) — A man who advises corporation presidents says a top executive who relies on authority rather than information is a man headed for troubles.

He says oftentimes such an executive can take his company along with him.

Such an executive places too much reliance upon the rights of office and not enough on effective communication, maintains Eugene Jennings, a confidential consultant to many corporate chief executives.

"An authority-oriented person gives answers rather than asks questions, talks but doesn't listen. He thinks the boss should have the answers and that subordinates should listen," Jennings says.

We are in an information-dominated society, says Jennings. "Information is power." He claims the more an executive relies on authority at the expense of information the less competent he becomes, and that abounds in the corporate world.

He insists that perhaps one in four corporate chief executives rely too heavily on authority.

The results show up in unrealistic decisions, "the single most common cause of removal of corporate chiefs in the past three years," according to Jennings. He is also a Michigan State professor, an author, top authority on corporate personnel and consultant to blue chip corporations.

The competent manager makes a greater effort to get information than to give it, recognizing that if he doesn't have good information he can't give competent advice, Jennings said.

The typical pattern producing the authoritarian manager is that of a man who "ascends a craggy slope," experiencing as many failures as successes but who wins out from sheer will power.

He creates many enemies as he claws his way up, and he learns to distrust rather than to place trust. Because it is both a human and managerial necessity to trust someone, the authoritarian compensates by overly trusting one person.

The successful results are becoming progressively better.

It is interesting that infants who recover from hyaline membrane disease subsequently grow and develop normally without any after-effects of the original lung disorder.

Do you think that diseases like diphtheria and whooping cough would be less frequent now than at the beginning of the century even without vaccination?

I question this because of the better health standards generally today.

I am a seventh-grade teacher.

Miss T.M., Wis.

Dear Miss M.:

Your present an interesting idea. It is generally accepted that many infectious diseases have been decreasing in frequency because of the reasons you mention.

Yet the total eradication of diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, German measles, measles, and polio can be attained only with proper immunization. By "proper" I mean not only the initial vaccination, but the booster shots necessary to maintain thorough immunization.

Great concern is being evidenced by city, state and federal agencies about the decreasing use of vaccination against childhood infections.

So significant, in fact, is this that the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, in conjunction with the American Medical Association and other medical groups, is mobilizing its forces in an effort to bring total immunization to all children everywhere.

Consequently, the president becomes totally dependent upon one trusted subordinate for information, and this trusted subordinate is careful not to bother the chief with what he doesn't want to hear, especially in a crisis.

The authoritarian manager seldom asks questions. "He doesn't know what he doesn't know." He is insulated by those he trusts and makes decisions on his right to make them rather than on realistic information.

Like a football quarterback, Jennings says such managers are always playing catchup. Their decisions lag too far behind the events they are supposed to solve and make more crises than they resolve.

Effects Of Auto Factory Layoffs Won't Be Drastic

DETROIT (AP) — Auto industry layoffs caused by the energy crisis or parts shortages mean pay losses for hundreds of auto workers, perhaps the loss of their jobs.

But to thousands of their fellow workers, the layoffs are a welcome holiday season respite. They will still get the bulk of their pay.

The Big Three American auto makers have announced layoffs for more than 200,000 of their 720,000 workers. Most of the layoffs are set for a week or less.

Many of the auto workers who have been laid off or who face a layoff will receive as much as 95 per cent of their usual take-home pay from unemployment compensation and from supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) under United Auto Worker contracts.

A Page Of Opinion

Liquid Coal

Not long ago the U.S. moth-balled its experimental nuclear-powered merchant ship Savannah, in an act which appeared to put an end to a once-promising era before it began. The other day the Navy took its latest experimental ship on a one-day cruise. This one was powered by a coal derivative.

If that appears to be a step backward, it is not. The derivative was oil and the vintage destroyer U.S.S. Johnston is the first ship in the world to use oil produced from coal as its fuel. The Johnston's initial voyage was an expensive one, considering the development costs which contributed to its boiler heat.

But the Navy and the Interior Department, which collaborated on the project, believe there could be a great future for coal converted to oil, not only on the sea but on land as well. To back its belief, Interior has a coal liquefaction plant operating in Princeton, N. J., and another under construction in Tacoma, Wash. Two plants which convert coal to gas also are operating, with a third under construction.

These plants cannot complete economically with conventional oil and gas plants, but researchers working on the project contend they will do so when a higher production level is achieved. Unlike other gas and oil refineries, the raw material for these plants is neither in scarce supply nor subject to boycott.

Fugitive From Afar

NEW YORK—The American Museum-Hayden Planetarium in New York is offering a free booklet on Kohoutek and comets in general. So far, mostly young people have written in for the pamphlet and many of them have expressed a troubled fear that, somehow, Big Ko will flash by before they can look up. Hence, they want the comfort of at least being able to read about it and scan the artist's rendering of what it looked like.

The word from 81st and Central Park West, where lurks the planetarium, is "Yes, Virginia, there is a Kohoutek just as surely as there is a Santa Claus, and you'll see it." It'll be around for weeks, which should also take care of the worry of Sam Eakin of Jerome, Idaho:

"So far it has rained nearly every day of this month," Sam's letter fretted. "Dear American Museum," wrote a little girl named Irene Naranjo of Albuquerque, "please send me the pamphlet, but I'd rather see the comet." Other letters ask, "Which way should I look?" and "Suppose all those tall buildings get in the way?"

More optimistic is Emily Tinsley of Foristell, Mo. No moppet, Emily. "Please send the pamphlet on the new comet," she wrote briskly. "I was seven years old when Halley's appeared in 1910 and clearly remember that everyone said, 'The world is ending.' They were wrong. Will be happy to see Kohoutek. Am anxiously looking up."

Ms. Tinsley obviously is not shopping for "comet pills," as a dismaying number of Americans did—to the delight of W. C. Fields and other medicine men—when the Earth passed through the tip of Halley's tail these 63 years ago.

About the time Kohoutek slides away from the sun at 250,000 mph and goes somewhere "way out there where it will slow down to half a mile an hour and begin its return perhaps 1,000,000 years hence, Pioneer 10 will have been on its solar system escape path for weeks. They'll Do It Every Time

Soil Districts Move To Cities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Soil and Water Conservation Districts, long considered a farm monopoly, now are moving to the cities.

Once restricted to unincorporated rural areas, the districts now can legally provide needed soil analyses and sedimentation studies to city zoning and planning boards.

The move to urban areas got a boost recently when Columbus became the first major urban center to petition for membership in its county district.

"It's very significant," said Floyd Heft, chief of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources' division of soil and water conservation districts.

He said Columbus is one of about 20 cities and villages which have asked for membership in the four years since they became eligible through a change in Ohio law.

"We've primarily been servicing the agricultural society of the state of Ohio for the last 25 or 30 years," Heft said. "Only recently have we made it possible for the cities to receive the same kind of services."

The districts will act in an advisory capacity to city zoning and planning boards, drawing on its expertise in soil and water problems.

Services include soil analyses for bearing strengths and drainage characteristics, important for determining what use land can best be put to and in planning sewage systems.

The districts also specialize in problems of urban sedimentation, Heft said. Sedimentation of streams can result from the first flash of rainwater into storm sewers or from runoff from residential or industrial development.

Heft said studies at one residential development, where the soil is laid bare and not planted until after construction is complete, showed a runoff of 200 tons per acre.

The districts also can provide advice on flood prevention and home sewage treatment systems, Heft said.

The districts have no enforcement powers at present, Heft said.

But it does have the legal power of entry onto private property for survey and investigation, and Heft said he expects the districts to do some investigation for the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency on pollution matters later.

Heft said before 1969, districts were restricted to unincorporated rural areas. But even then, it provided some services upon request to some cities.

"In a sense, I guess you'd say we were bootlegging these services," Heft said.

The division director said he hopes the soil and water districts can work closely with their city zoning and planning boards.

Soil Districts Move To Cities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Soil and Water Conservation Districts, long considered a farm monopoly, now are moving to the cities.

Once restricted to unincorporated rural areas, the districts now can legally provide needed soil analyses and sedimentation studies to city zoning and planning boards.

The move to urban areas got a boost recently when Columbus became the first major urban center to petition for membership in its county district.

"It's very significant," said Floyd Heft, chief of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources' division of soil and water conservation districts.

He said Columbus is one of about 20 cities and villages which have asked for membership in the four years since they became eligible through a change in Ohio law.

"We've primarily been servicing the agricultural society of the state of Ohio for the last 25 or 30 years," Heft said. "Only recently have we made it possible for the cities to receive the same kind of services."

The districts will act in an advisory capacity to city zoning and planning boards, drawing on its expertise in soil and water problems.

Services include soil analyses for bearing strengths and drainage characteristics, important for determining what use land can best be put to and in planning sewage systems.

The districts also specialize in problems of urban sedimentation, Heft said. Sedimentation of streams can result from the first flash of rainwater into storm sewers or from runoff from residential or industrial development.

Heft said studies at one residential development, where the soil is laid bare and not planted until after construction is complete, showed a runoff of 200 tons per acre.

The districts also can provide advice on flood prevention and home sewage treatment systems, Heft said.

The districts have no enforcement powers at present, Heft said.

But it does have the legal power of entry onto private property for survey and investigation, and Heft said he expects the districts to do some investigation for the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency on pollution matters later.

Heft said before 1969, districts were restricted to unincorporated rural areas. But even then, it provided some services upon request to some cities.

"In a sense, I guess you'd say we were bootlegging these services," Heft said.

The division director said he hopes the soil and water districts can work closely with their city zoning and planning boards.

America's Energy Crisis Rides With Truck Driver

EAST BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — When Wayne Langdon climbs into the cab of his big diesel, America's energy crisis goes along for the ride.

It never leaves his side, on the road or at home.

Langdon is one of thousands of men who make a living from the needs of people who want to get something from one spot to another. He's a trucker.

On his job, he hauls petroleum products. At home, he is a father of four who must make sure his furnace has enough heating oil to keep the chill outside. And now the government has told him to drive slower.

"What this means is that I have to stay away from home longer," he said. "And since I get paid by the mile, I don't get any more money."

Income, however, is only part of the problem.

"I expected Wayne at midnight Tuesday," said his wife, Margaret, after her husband ended a round trip from here to Winston-Salem, N.C. "That run is normally a two-day trip. With the 55-mile per hour speed limit, it's two and a half days."

After pushing the 290-horsepower rig past other trucks, around detours, onto weigh scales, into long refueling lines — all after sleeping in a coffinlike bed attached to his cab — Langdon can give his children only the barest attention. Fatigue has generated its own energy crisis.

"We're required to take an eight-hour rest break. Because of this, I can't cut my sleep short to make up the time I lose by not being allowed to drive 65 any more," Langdon says.

"Also, because I can't get my tanks filled at one stop, I have to hedgehop from one truck stop to another to get enough fuel. That means more time lost and it also means I can't shop for the best price. I have to take what I can get," he said.

Langdon doesn't own the truck he drives. It is one of two owned by his boss. Both tractors are under contract to an oil products firm.

More mileage for the trucks means more profit and more pay. Faster speeds mean less fuel consumption and smaller costs. Faster speeds also mean more time at home and more trips.

Ocean Shipping Crunch Hits Grain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fuel crunches on ocean shipping are slowing down deliveries of U.S. grain to foreign customers and are adding to costs of delivering wheat and other commodities to foreign ports.

Ocean freight rates have soared in the past year, even without the fuel shortages. As they continue to climb, U.S. commodities will be even more expensive to foreign buyers a particular hardship to less-affluent countries that need American grain.

In a recent analysis of world food conditions, the Ford Foundation said the tight supply of grain is expected to result in relatively high prices for 1974.

"Compounding the situation is the pressure that massive increases in international grain movements have put upon shipping capacity and the cost increases resulting therefrom,"

Lake Erie Water Said Still Bad

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Optimistic statements that the Lake Erie water is improving at Cleveland are misleading, according to a preliminary report released by a group of Cleveland university professors.

The report based on a twoyear study by professors at three universities was released Wednesday by the Chicago office of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. It said the city's drinking water may not be as safe as residents think it is.

There are possibilities that the water contains toxic matter not tested for, the report said.

It went on to say that the Cleveland public health laboratories are not equipped to test for water-borne viruses and that toxic algae material may be present in the drinking water.

Although the lake has not become more polluted in the last two years, the EPA report said, there has been no measurable improvement.

It contradicts optimistic statements made by Gov. John J. Gilligan when he visited Edgewater Beach on the city's West Side Nov. 7. The governor said the swimming beaches are better than they have been.

The EPA report said the water between Edgewater and the Cleveland harbor is the worst in the area.

React Elects 1974 Officers

The Pickaway County React held an election of officers at its final meeting of 1973. The officers are:

John Leist, president; Charles Iles, vice president; Charles Schelgler Sr., secretary; Albert Betts, 3-year trustee; Dave Willison, 1-year trustee; Larry Kellenberger, public relations; John Stebelton, parliamentarian; Clydus Aldenderfer, chaplain;

The business meeting consisted of discussion of events for 1974.

the foundation said.

"The combination of the two adds up to a tremendous foreign exchange drain on less-developed countries which have to buy grain on the world market," the Ford experts said.

Energy watchers in the Agriculture Department say many U.S. ocean going vessels have slowed their speeds from as high as 25 knots to as low as 18 knots in an effort to save fuel.

Meanwhile, USDA statisticians say the price of a bushel of wheat shipped from Gulf of Mexico ports rose at mid-November to $5.43 per bushel delivered to Rotterdam for European buyers, up from $2.48 a year earlier.

Much of the rise has stemmed from the jump in wheat prices at the farm from a national average of $1.97 per bushel in November 1972 to $4.20 last month, according to USDA figures.

But the price of hauling wheat also has jumped, from $4.86 per metric ton (about 37 bushels) during the third quarter of 1972 to $9.89 per ton in July-September this year, says the department.

Stephenson Candidate For Appeals Court

Judge Earl E. Stephenson, Portsmouth, presiding judge of the Fourth District Court of Appeals of Ohio, announced today that he will be a candidate for re-election to a second term as a member of the court.

Judge Stephenson, who had previously served as Judge of the Portsmouth Municipal Court and the Scioto County Court of Common Pleas, was elected to a first term upon the Court in 1968.

Judge Stephenson is a Scioto County native and holds a degree in Business Administration from Ohio State University College of Commerce and a Juris Doctor Degree from Ohio State University College of Law. During his first term on the court, he has set frequently as a substitute member of the Ohio Supreme Court by designation of the late Chief Justice Kingsley Taft and present Chief Justice C. William O'Neill.

He is a member of various fraternal, civic and professional organizations and is presently serving as Department Judge Advocate of the American Legion of Ohio.

Appalachian Development Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 13-state Appalachia Regional Commission will look into more potential areas of regional development beginning in 1975.

Members made the decision at the windup here Wednesday of a two-day meeting in which they allocated federal highway funds for fiscal years 1975 through 1978. Those funds will permit completion of Phase I of the Appalachia highway construction program.

Troy Grigsby, deputy director of the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development, said the commission authorized creation of eight-state subcommittees to work in several areas, beginning in 1975.

The areas are: enterprise development, health and job development, environment and natural resources, transportation, housing and community development, education, institutional and development strategy, and tourism-culture.

The commission decided that each subcommittee, made up from members of various states, will be asked to review progress that has been made in the economically-depressed region since Congress voted to create the commission in 1965. From there, they "will look to the future," Grigsby said.

In other business, the commission put off until its next meeting in Washington Jan. 22-23 action on highway maintenance and construction priorities. The priorities are needed to

Big Bear Co.

Declares Dividend

The Board of Directors of Big Bear Stores Co., Columbus, on Dec. 4, 1973 declared a 27 cents per share cash dividend on its common stock to be paid on January 2, 1974 to stockholders of record at the close of business on December 17, 1973.

Wayne E. Brown, President, estimated consolidated sales and other revenue for the 39 weeks ended December 1, 1973 will reach $195.4 million compared to $178.3 million for the 40 week period last year, an increase of 9.6 per cent for Big Bear's 53 supermarkets and the ten Hart's Family Centers. On an average week basis sales increased 12.4 per cent over a year ago.

For the 13 week period ended Dec. 1, 1973 estimated consolidated sales and other revenue rose to $67.9 million, an increase of 3.4 per cent over the $65.6 million reported for the 14 week period last year. Again, when calculating the sales gain on an average week, during that period, the increase was 11.4 per cent. Big Bear Supermarket is located at 1180 N. Court St. in Circleville.

obtain 70 per cent federal matching funds for four-lane highways.

Until now, the federal government has been providing only 50 per cent of the cost of such projects. Grigsby said members needed more time to confer with highway directors in their respective states.

Ohio Gov. John Gilligan has been co-state chairman of the commission for the past six months. The commission elected three other governors to serve successive six-month terms, starting Jan. 1, 1975. Don Whitehead of Washington serves continuously as federal co-chairman, but a new co-state chairman takes office twice a year.

Elected to serve six months each, starting Jan. 1, in order, were Govs. John C. West of South Carolina, George C. Wallace of Alabama, and Wendell H. Ford of Kentucky.

Earlier, the commission approved allocations of federal highway funds totaling $448.1 million for the three-year period beginning in fiscal 1975. They brought to $1.9 billion the amount of federal highway funds put into Appalachia since the commission was created eight years ago.

Yugoslavian Seeks Boost In U.S. Trade

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Toma Granfil, Yugoslavia's ambassador to the United States, says his country would welcome increased trade with America.

The ambassador told Plain Dealer Business Editor Bruee Ellison "we would welcome a bit more active American approach to sales and to joint ventures."

He said it "is possible that in the next few weeks there will be some announcements about joint ventures."

Granfil said the federally-run Overseas Private Investment Corp., which insures American investments abroad, has begun to accept applications from U.S. firms which may want to invest in Yugoslavia.

"Some 15 American firms have already made application for their insurance," he said.

Granfil said he talked with Cleveland bankers during his visit here and expects to see some of Yugoslavia's banking business in this country handled in Cleveland.

"Our economic relations have long been done through New York," he said, "but we will not do everything from there any longer."

The ambassador said Yugoslavia operates under a "socialist market economy."

"Although the state owns all of the factories, each is a free enterprise unit, which arranges its own deals in the marketplace, both within Yugoslavia and in foreign trade."

Unlike other Eastern Bloc nations, Yugoslavia has no "official" state trading company, he added.

He said a deal signed last week with Westinghouse Electric Corp. valued at about $170 million will give Yugoslavia its first nuclear power plant.

Welfare Probe Opens In Noble County

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A special team of investigators has been sent to Noble County by the Ohio Department of Public Welfare to look into possible cases of Welfare abuse.

Charles Bates, Ohio's welfare director, said the investigators will try to determine the number of ineligible and overpaid welfare recipients in the county.

A recent statewide study showed 13.7 per cent of the persons receiving Aid to Dependent Children in Ohio were ineligible.

Drawdown Announced At Deer Creek Lake

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources has begun its annual drawdown of water in Deer Creek Reservoir.

The level of the lake will be reduced a total of 20 feet for flood control, erosion control and construction. Fill date will be March 1, 1974.

Alfalfa juice is projected as being able to boost the protein content of breads, pastries, pastas, soups, stews, gravies, milk substitutes, ground meats and other processed foods.

Sneek-A-Peek AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

This seems like a good time to talk about some of the most popular stories told during morning Story Hour. Stories enjoyed by three to five year olds all have one common ingredient: FUN!

"Jim and the Beanstalk" by Birmingham tells of a mean, lonely old giant who is transformed into a happy man by the tender loving care of a small boy. The giant's ferocious appearance and his gaudy red wig are both funny and scarifying. The children adored him.

Another popular critter is Charles, the young crocodile who swallows soap and clocks and zippers. "Keep Your Mouth Closed, Dear" by Aliko is our most loved story. It's full of chuckles. Aliko's bright, vivacious drawings fill every page. In the Philippine folk tale, "A Crocodile's Tale" by Jose Aruego, another alligator almost gets the best of a little boy. Just in time, a clever monkey saves him from certain death.

"The Cat and the Mouse", another story illustrated by Jose Aruego also delighted the children. A poor misunderstood cat prefers playing with a mouse, much to the anger of his alley cat friends. A long chase ends in a deep hole and almost claims our friends, but everything works out.

"Cannonball Simp", also by Birmingham, uses the familiar theme of a little lost dog and the cruel world. A sad clown who needs a friend provides just the right touch of pathos.

"Harvey's Raft" by Russell Hoban features a member of the muskrat family. Harvey can't go to his sister's

Farm Tax Proposals Postponed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House Ways and Means Committee has postponed action until next Wednesday on how to tax farmland.

The committee met for a third time Wednesday to decide how to implement an amendment to the state constitution, passed Nov. 6. The amendment says farmland shall be taxed on its current use rather than market value, which could soar if farmland near urban areas was sold for commercial development.

The committee postponed action until Rep. George D. Tablack, D-52 Campbell, its chairman, said he hopes there would be concrete information to go on.

When the committee session opened, Tablack gave each member a draft of a proposed bill that he said was only for "discussion purposes. It's nobody's bill."

The draft would have made the tax commissioner administrator of farmland taxes. Currently, county auditors and the Board of Tax Appeals share the authority, except for public utilities.

Before the hearing was over, the temporary proposal had been killed, even for discussion purposes. The committee agreed to keep administration as it is.

party and his attempts to console himself will strike a familiar chord in many families. The little animals in Hoban's books are among the most lovable in all of children's literature. Another favorite is the delightful Frances, of "Bread and Jam for Frances."

An unlikely hero is "Slithers" by Hoff. A boa constrictor, he prefers helping people to slithering around in the jungle. However, his efforts often go unappreciated. Not by the children, though; they appreciate him.

A Caldecott winner, "Sylvester and the Magic Pebble" by Steig evoked the most sympathy from the children. Unfortunately, all Sylvester's wishes come true, with dire consequences for him. But even when he turns into a rock, the author has a touch of humor. Sylvester's parents discover his whereabouts when they accidentally sit on him!

"Tigers in the Cellar" by Fenner describes a little girl's recurring dream that the cellar is filled with wild tigers. But, these tigers are real and Carol rides off on their backs in the middle of the night. Some of the children wondered whether Carol's mother missed her!

Many thanks to our guest storyteller, Marcia Schneider, and to our capable and talented speakers. It was a very successful program.

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

Windy, wintry weather has returned to Ohio as a low pressure system moves eastward north of the state.

Temperatures generally fell into the 30s overnight and most sections of the state recorded light flurries. Gusty winds are accompanying the colder temperatures.

The winds were to die down somewhat as the low pressure center moves on eastward. The temperatures really were expected to drop tonight falling to between 16 and 22 degrees.

Flurries were to continue today, mostly in the northern section of the state.

Looking on the bright side, a trend toward milder weather is expected for the weekend.

Fuel Price Probe Urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Democratic gubernatorial candidate James D. Nolan said today he has asked that Internal Revenue Service agents be sent to Ohio to check out fuel prices being charged truck drivers.

He said he made the request in a telegram to the Cost of Living Council in Washington.

Nolan noted that fuel distributors and gasoline stations may not increase prices unless they are increases based on crude oil prices.

Truckers who have been blockading highways in Ohio and other states have charged that they were being gouged on diesel fuel prices.

Nolan charged that Gov. John Gilligan did not understand the truckers' plight and therefore acted incorrectly in calling upon the Ohio Highway Patrol to solve the problem.

The defensive line consisted of ends Jerry Huckleba of Cedarville and Paul Tornow of Gibsonburg, tackles Chuck Brown of Frankfort Adena and Doug Vanatta of Ada and middle guard Pete Morrison of Ottawa Hills.

The No. 1 linebackers are Doug Devilbiss of Portsmouth Notre Dame, Rich Householder of Irondale Stanton, Steve Abraham of Ashtabula St. John and Phil Bennett of Fostoria St. Wendelin.

In the first team defensive backfield were Rhett Huddle of Williamsburg, Ernie Sheeler of Xenia Wilson and Joe Whitaker of Rockford Parkway.

Circleville Tigers Face Cage Action

Circleville's cagers will see double action this week when the Tigers host Madison Plains in a South Central Ohio League clash Friday night and travel to Bishop Werhle Saturday night to take on a strong Wolverine squad.

The Red and Black cagers will be going after victory number two on the season and their first win in SCOL competition against Madison Plains. Circleville stopped Westfall in the first outing of the year and then dropped a narrow decision to Washington C.H. in the league opener.

Madison Plains is sporting an 0-2 record for the year after losing to Adena, 67-49, and falling to Hillsboro, 81-61, in the SCOL.

On offense the Golden Eagles will run some set patterns, fast break and do quite a bit of free lancing. Russ Tope, 5-foot-9 guard, and David Joslin, 6-foot-3 forward, are the keys to the Eagles' offense.

The defense of the Eagles will switch from man to man to zone and they will use a 1-2-1-1 zone press.

Starting for Madison Plains will be: Tope and Barry Gallagher, 5-foot-9, at the guards, Steve Scaggs, 6-foot-6, at center, with Rich Givens, 6-foot-1, and Joslin at the forward posts.

Bishop Werhle, a pre season pick to dethrone Ready in the strong Central Catholic League, will provide some stiff opposition for the Tigers. The Wolverines, 2-0, hold a 63-49 win over Bloom Carroll and a big 96-72 decision against Hamilton Twp.

Werhle likes to run and will take advantage of the fast break. The Wolverines are a good shooting club and go to the boards with vigor.

On defense they will use a tight man to man and also a 1-2-2 zone to thwart the offense of the opposition.

The offense is paced by Jerry Mahon, 6-foot-2 forward, and Ed Phillips, 6-foot-2 forward. Both boys are averaging about 25 points a game.

Starting for the Wolverines will be: Byron Barnes, 5-foot-11, and Mike Yoli, 6-foot, at the guards, Mallory Pettiford, 6-foot-1, at center with Mahon and Phillips at the forwards. Pete Thomas, 6-foot-1, will be the sixth man for Werhle.

Circleville will be out to get back on the winning trail after dropping a 65-61 heartbreaker to Washington C.H. last week. Kris Kline was named offensive Tiger and Perry Hoskins defensive Tiger for their work against the Blue Lions.

Coach John Lawhorn will be starting Doug Radabaugh, 5-foot-11, and Robin Martin, 5-foot-11, at the guards, Kline, 6-foot-2, at center and Hoskins, 5-foot-11, and Harold Reed, 6-foot-1, at the forward posts. Bench strength will come from John Ankrom, 5-foot-11, Brad Spangler, 6-foot-3, and sophomore George Moore, 6-foot-2.

Willie Davis Is Traded To Montreal

HOUSTON (AP) — Mike Marshall got the green light from the Montreal Expos, Charles O. Finley gave the stop sign to the New York Yankees and the National League owner kept the hot San Diego situation moving.

The traffic was terrific at the winter baseball meetings Wednesday.

Marshall, unhappy pitching with the weak Montreal defense despite a record-breaking 1973 season in the bullpen, was sent to the Los Angeles Dodgers for star outfielder Willie Davis in the most dramatic trade of the meetings.

After the explosive Marshall-Davis deal, National League President Chub Feeney announced that club owners met and resolved nothing in the proposed sale of the San Diego team. The issue was tabled until today, when "some announcement will be made," Feeney said.

The news-filled day also was punctuated by the appearance of Oakland owner Finley, who met with the Yankees, and in so many words told them to keep their hands off A's Manager Dick Williams.

Meanwhile, two other deals were consummated. The Dodgers acquired center fielder Tommie Agee from the St. Louis Cardinals for reliever Pete Richert and the Detroit Tigers purchased pitcher Luke Walker from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The defensive line consisted of ends Jerry Huckleba of Cedarville and Paul Tornow of Gibsonburg, tackles Chuck Brown of Frankfort Adena and Doug Vanatta of Ada and middle guard Pete Morrison of Ottawa Hills.

Buffalo Braves Top Trail Blazers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Portland Trail Blazers had two problems Wednesday night. One was Buffalo Braves center Bob McAdoo, the other was turnovers.

Portland had 36 turnovers, to be exact. The Braves stole 20 passes, and McAdoo, with 37 points, helped make things more miserable for Portland Coach Jack McCloskey in leading the Braves to a 114-110 National Basketball Association victory.

In other NBA games Wednesday night, the Boston Celtics bombed the New York Knickerbockers 119-97; the Cleveland Cavaliers upended the Philadelphia 76ers 89-75; the Houston Rockets downed the Capital Bullets 119-99; the Kansas City-Omaha Kings tripped the Atlanta Hawks 117-105, and the Phoenix Suns edged the Golden State Warriors 101-97.

Demarco Wins Honor With Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Veteran Cleveland Browns' center Bob DeMarco says he is "really tickled" about being named the Browns' offensive player of the year by the Cleveland Touchdown Club.

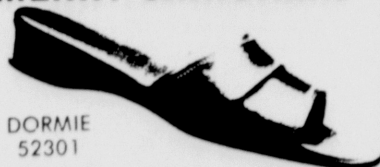

"I haven't been honored like this since I was in college," DeMarco said.

The Touchdown Club picked defensive back Clarence Scott and linebacker Bob Babich as defensive standouts.

Little All-American Named

NEW YORK (AP) — The unrelated Johnson boys — little Billy of Widener College and large Gary of Grambling — were named to The Associated Press small college All-America football team for the second year in a row today along with Tennessee State linebacker Waymond Bryant.

Billy Johnson is a 5-foot-9, 175-pound scabbard who rushed for 1,496 yards on 168 carries this season and scored 23 touchdowns — 21 on the ground, one on a 94-yard punt return and one on an 85-yard kickoff return.

Although just a junior, he is ineligible next season and wound up his career with 62 touchdowns, each of which covered an average of 41.7 yards.

Gary Johnson is a 6-3, 261-pound junior whom Coach Eddie Robinson calls the best defensive lineman in college football and one of the best he's ever coached. And Robinson has coached such stars as Buck Buchanan, Ernie Ladd and John Mendenhall.

Bryant, a 6-3, 235-pounder, is the leader of Tennessee State's defense along with huge end Ed Jones, another member of the Little All-America team, and the Tigers currently are No. 1 in The AP rankings.

Joining Billy Johnson in the offensive backfield are quarterback Kim McQuilken of Lehigh and running backs Mike Thomas of Nevada-Las Vegas and freshman sensation Wilbert Montgomery of Abilene Christian.

McQuilken completed 196 of 326 passes during the regular season for a sizzling 62.5 per cent average, 2,603 yards and 19 touchdowns.

Thomas, who played for the University of Oklahoma last season, led College Division rushers with 1,741 yards in 274 carries, only 34 yards short of the all-time one-season National Collegiate Athletic Association record.

Montgomery has to be seen to be believed. The 190-pound rookie from Greenville, Miss., carried 136 times for 854 yards — a 6.3 average — caught 30 passes for 411 yards, returned 12 kickoffs for 249 yards and scored an incredible 31 touchdowns.

The Little All-American receivers are tight end Scott Garske of Eastern Washington and split end Don Hutt of Boise State.

On the offensive interior line are tackles Steve Drongowski of Wittenberg and Henry Lawrence of Florida A&M, guards Joe Kotval of Buena Vista and Herb Scott of Virginia Union, and center Mark King of Troy State, a sophomore standout two years ago at the University of Florida.

Besides Bryant and the 6-9, 264-pound Ed "Too Tall" Jones, who may be the first draft choice of the National Football League, the defensive team consists of end Thomas Henderson of Langston, tackle Bill Kollar of Montana State, middle guard Glenn Fleming of Northeast Louisiana, linebackers Godwin Turk of Southern University and Eugene "Superman" Simms of Morgan State and backs Autry Beamon of East Texas State, Leonard Fairley of Alcorn A&M and Marty Kranz of Mankato State.

New York Defeats Pacers, 108-103

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"The first half just killed us," moaned Indiana Coach Bob Leonard. "When you give a team 68 points in the first half and then try to come back against them it's a rough job."

Too rough for the Pacers. New York opened up the early lead and then held on down the stretch for a 108-103 American Basketball Association victory Wednesday night. It was the Nets' first victory this season over Indiana and boosted the resurgent New Yorkers three games over the .500 mark at 15-12.

There was just one other game played in the ABA and Denver won it easily, 138-108, over the San Diego.

Cold Bobcats Still Defeat Marietta

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio University, a contender for the Mid-American Conference basketball title, won for the first time this season Wednesday night, but Coach Jim Snyder wasn't satisfied.

"I'm concerned about our shooting and turnovers," Snyder said after the Bobcats dumped nonleague foe Marietta 80-53. "We need improvement in both."

The Bobcats, who lost a squeaker to Northwestern last Saturday and face such formidable opponents as UCLA in coming weeks, hit only 41 per cent of their shots from the field and threw the ball away 22 times.

Bowling Green, also playing outside the MAC, defeated Cleveland State 82-70 after breaking the game open with a 14-point scoring spree in the second half.

In other major Ohio college action Wednesday night:

Louisville beat Dayton 75-68 in a game that was close until the final two seconds when Wesley Cox dropped in four quick points. Cox put in two free throws and then stole the ball on an inbound pass and dropped in two more points.

Marquette Stops Tennessee, 67-65

By HOWARD SMITH Associated Press Sports Writer

"Al McGuire doesn't care whether he beats you by one point or by 50," declared Tennessee basketball Coach Ray Mears, "as long as he beats you."

McGuire and his Marquette team settled for a two-point margin Wednesday night with a 67-65 overtime triumph over the Volunteers. Lloyd Walton sank a layup and a pair of free throws in the closing minute of the extra period to assure the seventh-ranked Warriors of their third victory of the young season.

"Against a team like Marquette you have to have everything fall into place," said Mears. "We missed some foul shots in the last half and we had a couple of rebounds that went against us. And we never could get the big bucket at the right time."

In other games involving top 20 teams, No. 2 North Carolina State opened its season with a 79-47 drubbing of East Carolina; No. 3 Indiana defeated Kansas 72-59; No. 4 Maryland buried Eastern Kentucky 106-57; No. 5 North Carolina held off California 74-70; and No. 9 Louisville dumped Dayton 75-68.

Also, No. 12 Long Beach State was upset by Colorado 73-71; No. 15 Arizona topped Athletes in Action 86-77; No. 16 Penn whipped Manhattan 91-79; and No. 20 Memphis State routed California-Davis 105-61.

In other top games, Clemson shaded Purdue 81-80 in overtime; LaSalle beat Army 83-71; Cincinnati dumped Oregon State 72-63; Fordham topped Yale 92-82; St. Bonaventure defeated Georgetown 75-68; South Carolina whipped Georgia Southern 91-78; Princeton thumped Navy 64-44; Detroit held off St. John's, Minn., 81-77; Ohio University buried Marietta 80-53; Duquesne got by Richmond 48-39; and St. Michael's, Vt., edged Middlebury 79-77.

Little All-American Named

NEW YORK (AP) — The unrelated Johnson boys — little Billy of Widener College and large Gary of Grambling — were named to The Associated Press small college All-America football team for the second year in a row today along with Tennessee State linebacker Waymond Bryant.

Billy Johnson is a 5-foot-9, 175-pound scatback who rushed for 1,496 yards on 168 carries this season and scored 23 touchdowns — 21 on the ground, one on a 94-yard punt return and one on an 85-yard kickoff return.

Although just a junior, he is ineligible next season and wound up his career with 62 touchdowns, each of which covered an average of 41.7 yards.

Gary Johnson is a 6-3, 261-pound junior whom Coach Eddie Robinson calls the best defensive lineman in college football and one of the best he's ever coached. And Robinson has coached such stars as Buck Buchanan, Ernie Ladd and John Mendenhall.

Bryant, a 6-3, 235-pounder, is the leader of Tennessee State's defense along with huge end Ed Jones, another member of the Little All-America team, and the Tigers currently are No. 1 in The AP rankings.

Joining Billy Johnson in the offensive backfield are quarterback Kim McQuilken of Lehigh and running backs Mike Thomas of Nevada-Las Vegas and freshman sensation Wilbert Montgomery of Abilene Christian.

McQuilken completed 196 of 326 passes during the regular season for a sizzling 62.5 per cent average, 2,603 yards and 19 touchdowns.

Thomas, who played for the University of Oklahoma last season, led College Division rushers with 1,741 yards in 274 carries, only 34 yards short of the all-time one-season National Collegiate Athletic Association record.

Montgomery has to be seen to be believed. The 190-pound rookie from Greenville, Miss., carried 136 times for 854 yards — a 6.3 average — caught 30 passes for 411 yards, returned 12 kickoffs for 249 yards and scored an incredible 31 touchdowns.

The Little All-American receivers are tight end Scott Garske of Eastern Washington and split end Don Hutt of Boise State.

On the offensive interior line are tackles Steve Drongowski of Wittenberg and Henry Lawrence of Florida A&M, guards Joe Kotval of Buena Vista and Herb Scott of Virginia Union, and center Mark King of Troy State, a sophomore standout two years ago at the University of Florida.

Besides Bryant and the 6-9, 264-pound Ed "Too Tall" Jones, who may be the first draft choice of the National Football League, the defensive team consists of end Thomas Henderson of Langston, tackle Bill Kollar of Montana State, middle guard Glenn Fleming of Northeast Louisiana, linebackers Godwin Turk of Southern University and Eugene "Superman" Simms of Morgan State and backs Autry Beamon of East Texas State, Leonard Fairley of Alcorn A&M and Marty Kranz of Mankato State.

New York Defeats Pacers, 108-103

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"The first half just killed us," moaned Indiana Coach Bob Leonard. "When you give a team 68 points in the first half and then try to come back against them it's a rough job."

Too rough for the Pacers. New York opened up the early lead and then held on down the stretch for a 108-103 American Basketball Association victory Wednesday night. It was the Nets' first victory this season over Indiana and boosted the resurgent New Yorkers three games over the .500 mark at 15-12.

There was just one other game played in the ABA and Denver won it easily, 138-108, over the San Diego.

Cold Bobcats Still Defeat Marietta

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio University, a contender for the Mid-American Conference basketball title, won for the first time this season Wednesday night, but Coach Jim Snyder wasn't satisfied.

"I'm concerned about our shooting and turnovers," Snyder said after the Bobcats dumped nonleague foe Marietta 80-53. "We need improvement in both."

The Bobcats, who lost a squeaker to Northwestern last Saturday and face such formidable opponents as UCLA in coming weeks, hit only 41 per cent of their shots from the field and threw the ball away 22 times.

Bowling Green, also playing outside the MAC, defeated Cleveland State 82-70 after breaking the game open with a 14-point scoring spree in the second half.

In other major Ohio college action Wednesday night:

Louisville beat Dayton 75-68 in a game that was close until the final two seconds when Wesley Cox dropped in four quick points. Cox put in two free throws and then stole the ball on an inbound pass and dropped in two more points.

Marquette Stops Tennessee, 67-65

By HOWARD SMITH
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Al McGuire doesn't care whether he beats you by one point or by 50," declared Tennessee basketball Coach Ray Mears, "as long as he beats you."

McGuire and his Marquette team settled for a two-point margin Wednesday night with a 67-65 overtime triumph over the Volunteers. Lloyd Walton sank a layup and a pair of free throws in the closing minute of the extra period to assure the seventh-ranked Warriors of their third victory of the young season.

"Against a team like Marquette you have to have everything fall into place," said Mears. "We missed some foul shots in the last half and we had a couple of rebounds that went against us. And we never could get the big bucket at the right time."

In other games involving top 20 teams, No. 2 North Carolina State opened its season with a 79-47 drubbing of East Carolina; No. 3 Indiana defeated Kansas 72-59; No. 4 Maryland buried Eastern Kentucky 106-57; No. 5 North Carolina held off California 74-70; and No. 9 Louisville dumped Dayton 75-68.

Also, No. 12 Long Beach State was upset by Colorado 73-71; No. 15 Arizona topped Athletes in Action 86-77; No. 16 Penn whipped Manhattan 91-79; and No. 20 Memphis State routed California-Davis 105-61.

In other top games, Clemson shaded Purdue 81-80 in overtime; LaSalle beat Army 83-71; Cincinnati dumped Oregon State 72-63; Fordham topped Yale 92-82; St. Bonaventure defeated Georgetown 75-68; South Carolina whipped Georgia Southern 91-78; Princeton thumped Navy 64-44; Detroit held off St. John's, Minn., 81-77; Ohio University buried Marietta 80-53; Duquesne got by Richmond 48-39; and St. Michael's, Vt., edged Middlebury 79-77.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — This is the week Horst Muhlmann's mail multiplies, but the Cincinnati Bengals' kicking specialist isn't reading much of it.

The reason: "Those Cleveland fans want me to worry." Muhlmann, whose 75 points top Cincinnati's scoring, is a target of letter-writing Cleveland Browns fans.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): If there are a few "clouds" on your horizon, look beyond, even OVERLOOK them. You can have a satisfactory day despite minor obstacles.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Anxious moments about travel, domestic affairs, finances? Call upon past experience and the advice of experts and all problems can be solved.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Some favorable hours; others will present unexpected obstacles. With a steady step and self-confidence, however, you can take all in stride.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Under day's favorable influences, you can win new laurels by capitalizing on your fine imagination and by pooling ideas with those who share your enthusiasms.

do recognize a good thing when you see it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): You will find the "little" things rewarding now. Don't look for the spectacular. Be satisfied with even small gains.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You may face a difficult situation but, properly handled, it could lead to fine advantages in the future. Rewards often come from what seem to be unlikely sources.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A good day for carrying out worthwhile plans, activities. Don't scatter energies or follow uncharted courses, but pursue your way steadily, confidently.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A thorough knowledge of what this day requires and an intelligent approach can offset immoderateness, discordant notes. Be alert to avoid false moves.

YOU BORN TODAY are a natural leader of men and, with your fine executive ability and gift for organization, could head a large corporation or any group which calls for direction and management on the grand scale. You also have a gift for words and would make an excellent journalist, editor or publisher; may also write brilliantly as a novelist or, in whimsical mood, turn out delightful poetry. The law would also be a fertile field for your talents and could lead, eventually, to the areas of statesmanship or diplomacy. On the personal side, you have a gregarious nature, love sports and are generous, almost to a fault.

NEW YORK (AP) — At midnight last Monday, station KTVW-TV in Tacoma, Wash., eased a tiny part of the national power shortage. It ended its regular post-midnight broadcasts for the duration of the area's power crisis.

Its voluntary move is one experts say probably won't be repeated often in the U.S., even though it is a way of reducing power needs of TV transmitters and the TV sets in an estimated 66.2 million homes.

But the current energy crunch at least has prompted the Federal Communications Commission to start a study on how much power is used by broadcasters and by radio and TV receivers in the nation.

However, an FCC official emphasizes there are no proposals afoot now to help ease the national power crisis by reducing the hours broadcasters, particularly TV stations, can stay on the air.

Such already has been done in Italy, where last weekend the government ordered the state-run TV network shut down at 11 p.m.—an hour earlier than usual—to help conserve the nation's energy.

But in the FCC's case, "all we're doing is getting the information now in case the question is raised as to what the power consumption is," says Wallace E. Johnson, head of the FCC's broadcast bureau.

"If there is a need to do it (cut back broadcast hours)

we'd be in a better position to evaluate what various proposals would mean in terms of power and fuel savings.

"But there is no proposal to cut back hours of operation in any way," he said, adding that the FCC study—which won't make any recommendations—should be finished in a week.

The idea of reducing the hours of TV broadcasting—Johnson says there now aren't any restrictions—has been suggested by persons outside the industry as a way of conserving energy on the home front.

The idea is that by reducing TV broadcast hours, viewers would be encouraged to turn off their sets earlier and thus save electricity.

According to the A.C. Nielsen ratings company, the average American household—if there is such—watches slightly more than six hours of TV each day, most of it during the evening hours.

All that viewing uses up slightly more than six percent of an average household's total electric use each year, according to the Edison Electric Institute, the major association of the nation's privately-owned light and power companies.

As you might expect, color TV sets need the most juice, according to EEI, with the highest amount—300 watts, an average of 660 kilowatt hours annually—used by sets with vacuum tube innards.

However, an FCC official emphasizes there are no proposals afoot now to help ease the national power crisis by reducing the hours broadcasters, particularly TV stations, can stay on the air.

Such already has been done in Italy, where last weekend the government ordered the state-run TV network shut down at 11 p.m.—an hour earlier than usual—to help conserve the nation's energy.

But in the FCC's case, "all we're doing is getting the information now in case the question is raised as to what the power consumption is," says Wallace E. Johnson, head of the FCC's broadcast bureau.

"If there is a need to do it (cut back broadcast hours)

we'd be in a better position to evaluate what various proposals would mean in terms of power and fuel savings.

"But there is no proposal to cut back hours of operation in any way," he said, adding that the FCC study—which won't make any recommendations—should be finished in a week.

The idea of reducing the hours of TV broadcasting—Johnson says there now aren't any restrictions—has been suggested by persons outside the industry as a way of conserving energy on the home front.

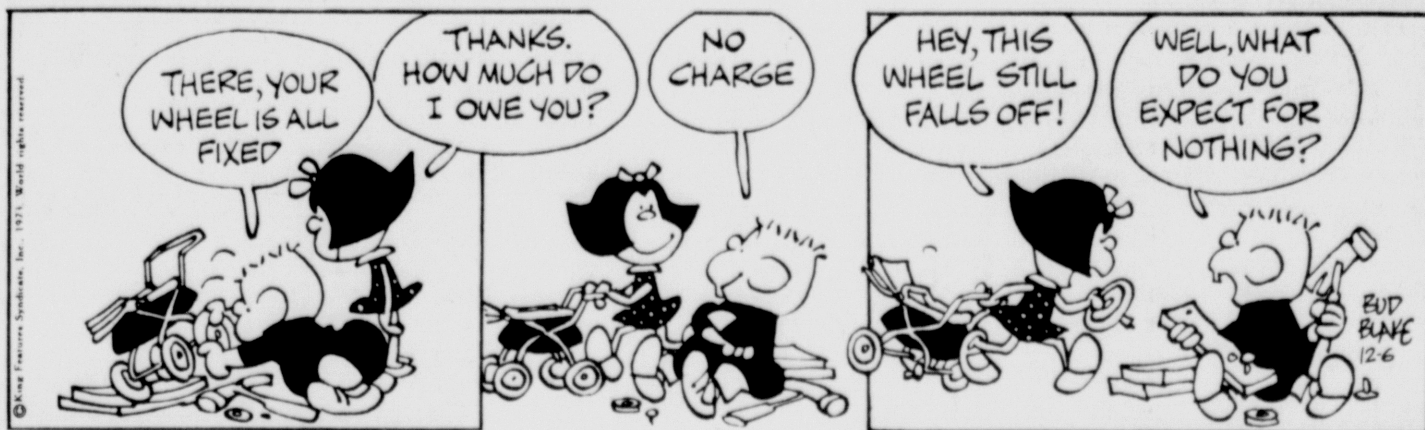

The idea is that by reducing TV broadcast hours, viewers would be encouraged to turn off their sets earlier and thus save electricity.

According to the A.C. Nielsen ratings company, the average American household—if there is such—watches slightly more than six hours of TV each day, most of it during the evening hours.

All that viewing uses up slightly more than six percent of an average household's total electric use each year, according to the Edison Electric Institute, the major association of the nation's privately-owned light and power companies.

As you might expect, color TV sets need the most juice, according to EEI, with the highest amount—300 watts, an average of 660 kilowatt hours annually—used by sets with vacuum tube innards.

Voice Travels On Light Beams

NEW YORK (AP) — There's going to come a time, says the Bell system, when your voice will travel not only with the speed of light, but by light itself.

Bell Laboratories scientists are working on methods of controlling light beams for the purpose of carrying telephone calls, data and video signals.

If successful this will mean great savings and a tremendous increase in telephone transmission capacity. Experiments thus far involve a pinhead-size laser and optical glass fibers no thicker than a human hair yet able to carry hundreds of telephone calls simultaneously.

The first school of the arts and crafts in Canada was founded at Cap Tourmente, Quebec, about 1668.

Voice Travels
On Light Beams

NEW YORK (AP) — There's going to come a time, says the Bell system, when your voice will travel not only with the speed of light, but by light itself.

Bell Laboratories scientists are working on methods of controlling light beams for the purpose of carrying telephone calls, data and video signals.

If successful this will mean great savings and a tremendous increase in telephone transmission capacity. Experiments thus far involve a pinhead-size laser and optical glass fibers no thicker than a human hair yet able to carry hundreds of telephone calls simultaneously.

The first school of the arts and crafts in Canada was founded at Cap Tourmente, Quebec, about 1668.

Truck Blockades Seen Breaking Up In Buckeye State

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
Associated Press Writer

Highway Patrolmen backed by National Guard tow trucks began today the removal of heavy tractor-trailer rigs from busy Interstate 70 east of Columbus, after angry drivers refused to budge.

The confrontation came after drivers had cleared eastbound lanes of the highway without incident.

Ohio's east-west turnpike to the north, meanwhile, remained blocked. Drivers earlier had begun to clear the massive jam that had clogged the highway for about 24 hours.

Truckers on the highway near Columbus defied orders to move, then broke ranks as officers moved in.

The highway patrolmen, their riot sticks drawn, led some of the dissident drivers away.

Officers who gave the orders to move were told by drivers, "Go to hell."

One trucker, his forehead bleeding, was carried away by officers after he refused to walk off the highway.

Newsmen at the scene reported some arrests were made.

Tow trucks were called in to remove the rigs blocking the highways westbound lanes. There were indications drivers behind the lead truck would remove their rigs without confrontation.

On the turnpike, meanwhile, drivers first began about dawn to clear the highway, then stopped the breakup about one hour—and several miles—later.

Drivers said they had decided to halt the movement because Gov. John J. Gilligan would not meet with them.

Drivers in the eastbound lanes of Interstate 70 began pulling away about 10:30 a.m. Tow trucks earlier had cleared away rigs blocking inter-sections.

"The truckers are moving out one by one, without any physical confrontation," reported newsman Dave Marsett of WBNS in Columbus, who was at the Interstate 70 blockage.

Near Toledo, meanwhile, an estimated 200 trucks blocked Interstate 75 and Interstate 280.

Truckers began clearing the turnpike about dawn, apparently ending their protest.

About 200 trucks were reported blocking I-75 near the turnpike at Toledo. I-70 was blocked for about 10 miles near Columbus.

At daybreak, truckers also blocked U.S. 20 in the Elyria area, and U.S. 250 was closed near Ashland, the highway patrol said.

On the turnpike, Walt Lowery, a trucker who met Wednesday night with representatives of the Transportation Department, said the drivers felt they had dramatized their complaints about higher fuel prices and lower speed limits. He said the truckers would wait 10 days to see what action was taken on their complaints in Washington.

Another turnpike driver, who identified himself by the code name "Joker," said the drivers had decided to remove their rigs before patrolmen arrived. "We've had it closed long enough," he said.

In Columbus, Gov. John Gilligan assembled his staff for an early morning meeting on the situation. He had threatened legal action if the truck blocks remained in place.

Federal and state officials tried with little success throughout Wednesday to persuade, mollify or threaten the drivers in order to clear the highways.

State feeder roads into Interstate 70 east of Columbus were cleared Wednesday night after state officials threatened to arrest any driver who refused to move his truck.

Most drivers left the access inter-sections voluntarily. Six didn't and were arrested by riot-equipped Ohio highway patrolmen accompanied by National Guard crews on tow trucks.

Elsewhere, Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania threatened to use the National Guard to keep roads clear. New Jersey Gov. William Cahill put the Guard on alert, declaring deliberate obstruction would not be tolerated.

Truck Blockades Seen Breaking Up In Buckeye State

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
Associated Press Writer

Highway Patrolmen backed by National Guard tow trucks began today the removal of heavy tractor-trailer rigs from busy Interstate 70 east of Columbus, after angry drivers refused to budge.

The confrontation came after drivers had cleared eastbound lanes of the highway without incident.

Ohio's east-west turnpike to the north, meanwhile, remained blocked. Drivers earlier had begun to clear the massive jam that had clogged the highway for about 24 hours.

Truckers on the highway near Columbus defied orders to move, then broke ranks as officers moved in.

The highway patrolmen, their riot sticks drawn, led some of the dissident drivers away.

Officers who gave the orders to move were told by drivers, "Go to hell."

One trucker, his forehead bleeding, was carried away by officers after he refused to walk off the highway.

Newsman at the scene reported some arrests were made.

Tow trucks were called in to remove the rigs blocking the highways westbound lanes. There were indications drivers behind the lead truck would remove their rigs without confrontation.

On the turnpike, meanwhile, drivers first began about dawn to clear the highway, then stopped the breakup about one hour—and several miles—later.

Drivers said they had decided to halt the movement because Gov. John J. Gilligan would not meet with them.

Drivers in the eastbound lanes of Interstate 70 began pulling away about 10:30 a.m. Tow trucks earlier had cleared away rigs blocking intersections.

"The truckers are moving out one by one, without any physical confrontation," reported newsman Dave Marsett of WBNS in Columbus, who was at the Interstate 70 blockage.

Near Toledo, meanwhile, an estimated 200 trucks blocked Interstate 75 and Interstate 280.

Truckers in eastbound lanes of the turnpike had moved their vehicles at an orderly pace about 14 miles when they decided to continue the blockage. Traffic in the westbound lanes, which had begun to move, also stopped.

Terry Mahoney of Erie, Pa., a driver who said he was among those who conferred with U.S. Transportation Department officials on the turnpike Wednesday night, said, "We was conned."

He did not elaborate.

Truckers began clearing the turnpike about dawn, apparently ending their protest.

About 200 trucks were reported blocking I-75 near the turnpike at Toledo. I-70 was blocked for about 10 miles near Columbus.

At daybreak, truckers also blocked U.S. 20 in the Elyria area, and U.S. 250 was closed near Ashland, the highway patrol said.

On the turnpike, Walt Lowery, a trucker who met Wednesday night with representatives of the Transportation Department, said the drivers felt they had dramatized their complaints about higher fuel prices and lower speed limits. He said the truckers would wait 10 days to see what action was taken on their complaints in Washington.

Another turnpike driver, who identified himself by the code name "Joker," said the drivers had decided to remove their rigs before patrolmen arrived. "We've had it closed long enough," he said.

In Columbus, Gov. John Gilligan assembled his staff for an early morning meeting on the situation. He had threatened legal action if the truck blocks remained in place.

Federal and state officials tried with little success throughout Wednesday to persuade, mollify or threaten the drivers in order to clear the highways.

State feeder roads into Interstate 70 east of Columbus were cleared Wednesday night after state officials threatened to arrest any driver who refused to move his truck.

Most drivers left the access intersections voluntarily. Six didn't and were arrested by riot-equipped Ohio highway patrolmen accompanied by National Guard crews on tow trucks.

Elsewhere, Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania threatened to use the National Guard to keep roads clear. New Jersey Gov. William Cahill put the Guard on alert, declaring deliberate obstruction would not be tolerated.

evening will be Jean Schiff, Marilyn Sabine, Helen Cookson, Caroline Pritchard and Mildred Fullen.

Mrs. Mamie Rowe, a former Ashville resident, is now at the Northside Manor, 13 Avalon Road, Mt. Vernon, Ohio 43050.

Sunday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Schiff, Mike and David were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hancher, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hancher, Jr. and Natalie, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Winfough, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hamilton and Teresa Jane, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hedges and Laura, Mrs. Beatrice Schiff, Mr. and Mrs. Lehman Stiles and Patricia and Mr. and Mrs. James Stauffer.
